Why this tool matters

Protecting the soul of a place by ensuring the city remains a livable home for its residents first, rather than degrading into a mere consumption backdrop for transient visitors.

Evidence we produce

A tracking dashboard combining raw visitor numbers, accommodation occupancy, spatial distribution of tourists, and local resident satisfaction levels.

Duration & Material

Duration · Continuous monitoring; 1-month setup for dashboards

Material · Accommodation statistics, exit questionnaires, resident surveys

Reference case

The European Tourism Indicator System (ETIS) provides a comprehensive toolkit for destination management. By deploying core and supplementary indicators, destinations can track essential baseline information such as the ratio of tourists to residents and environmental stress enabling continuous improvement and mitigating negative social impacts.
