Why this tool matters

Stripping away the bureaucratic fog of vague promises, demanding that public money and political effort leave a precise, measurable trace of improvement in the daily lives of the citizens.

Evidence we produce

A comprehensive Results Framework documenting specific intervention logics, quantified output indicators, and tracked result indicators against established baselines.

Duration & Material

Duration · 2 to 3 months for framework design; continuous monitoring

Material · URBACT Results Framework templates, Theory of Change canvases, local statistical data

Reference case

The URBACT program mandates the use of a Results Framework aligned with EU Cohesion Policy guidelines. Cities drafting Integrated Action Plans must define logical intervention chains with clear baselines and targets. In an evaluation of the URBACT III program, the systematic use of these impact assessment tools ensured that transnational knowledge transfer genuinely improved urban governance, shifting cities toward inclusive, evidence-based policy making.
